In foster home fire

Plaintiff files to dismiss $3 million suit

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The plaintiff filed a motion to dismiss a $3 million damages law suit stemming from a Waveland structure fire in which six foster children perished.

The motion to dismiss was filed Wednesday in Hancock County Circuit Court by the attorneys of Lisa M. Pesta on behalf of her infant son Scottie Lee Pesta, who died along with five other foster children.

The suit which was filed six days after the tragic fire listed as defendants, foster parents Larry and Sandy Giveans, The City of Waveland, and the Hancock County Welfare Department.

The motion to dismiss states, "...and moves the court for an Order dismissing this civil action without prejudice..."

The motion further states, "...That in filing this civil action and obtaining a Court Order to investigate the scene in an effort to determine the cause of the fatal fire which occurred at the home of Larry and Sandy Giveans on March 28, 1986 Plaintiff, through her expert and attorneys, in conjunction with and in cooperation with local officials involved in the investigation of this tragic fire, and have discovered new evidence indicating that the source of the fatal fire was electrical in nature and was caused by a defective electrical product."

The motion continues, "...That investigation also indicates that the foster parents, Larry and Sandy Giveans, The Department of Public Welfare, or the Fire Departments that responded in this instance in no way caused or contributed to the fatal fire and the resulting loss of life that occurred. This investigation reveals that these parties acted prudently at all times and are in no way responsible for the fire or the loss of life which resulted."

"WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, Plaintiffs move the Court for an Order dismissing this civil action without prejudice with all costs to be paid by the Plaintiff."

Wallace Bradley, Hancock County Welfare Department director, when informed of the motion to dismiss said, "I am relieved and I am sure the other parties will also be."

Late Wednesday, on reviewing the motion to dismiss, Michael D. Haas, Hancock County Youth Court referee who was surprised when the law suit was first filed, stated,

"I have personally revealed the evidence referred too in the motion to dismiss the suit against the Welfare Department, House Parents, and Waveland's officials." The judge continued, "The evidence shows that none of the people involved in the original law suit could have been at fault. I always felt that further investigation would exonerate all of our local officials. The motion to dismiss was filed for Lisa M. Pesta, plaintiff, by and through her attorneys of record, Ann Clark Lizarra of Bay St. Louis; and Boyce Holleman, A Professional Association by Michael B. Holleman, associate of Gulfport.

State Auditor Ray Mabus talks to Hancock North Central students Tuesday

Urges involvement

Ray Mabus encourages voter registration among HNC students

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Urging voter registration and commitment, State Auditor Ray Mabus spoke to Hancock North Central High School students Tuesday.

"If you are 18 and have not registered to vote, you do not have a voice in selecting the officials that represent you," he said.

Mabus told the students that if six people in every precinct in the state had changed their vote, his opponent would have won the election.

"Your vote can make a difference and see that officials with the priorities you want are elected to office," he said.

The worst sin for a sin in a democracy is indifference, he said.

"Be unreasonable, if something is not right or to your liking, try and change it," he added.

Mabus also said the state needs officials with higher priorities on education.

The only way to have a voice is to participate and vote, Mabus said.

"Yes, the early childhood education program should have been funded but not at the expense of higher education and vocational education," he said.

Mabus also told the students they should be committed to three things.

"First, you should be committed to yourselves," he said.

"Forty percent of the people who started out to school with you have dropped out and you will have to pay the bill with taxes to support many of these," Mabus added.

Family and community commitment are also necessary, he said.

"You need to leave your school, community and world a better place," Mabus said.

Mabus also fielded questions from the students following his presentation.

Questions ranged from the amount of his salary to what if any problems had been found by his office in the Hancock County School District funds.

Mabus told the group his salary as auditor was $45,000, less than one-half of his income as an attorney.

Thirty-six-year-old Mabus also told the students he had never had an accounting service but while since he took office, more than $2 million of misused public funds had been recovered.

Mabus said that there had been some problems with local funds but not during the present administration.

Also while at Hancock, Mabus spoke to the faculty members.

Firefighters appeal for equipment

By DENA BISNETTE

Representatives of two volunteer fire departments have again appealed to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors for help in obtaining equipment.

Peter LeStelle of Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department and Bill Fields Jr. of East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department addressed the board Tuesday, requesting financial assistance from the county.

Both stated that too many structures are being lost in Hancock County because most fire departments in the county lack modern equipment.

Using Clermont Harbor for an example, LeStelle said volunteers in that area have responded to 43 fires since Jan. 1, nine of which were structure fires.

"That's double what we should have had for that time period. We don't have the equipment to keep up a pace like that; no fire department has, not even the cities," he said.

He added that only Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Diamondhead, which are full-time fire departments, have modern enough equipment to meet state fire insurance specifications.

All of the county's fire departments, whether full-time or volunteer, have mutual assistance agreements, and sometimes as many as seven departments may respond to an alarm.

Some of the departments, like Kiln and East Hancock, have more revenue than others because they are eligible for special taxes.

BaySide Park's volunteers are trying to establish a fire protection district, but the capital outlay needed to do so totals about $10,000, and the volunteer fire department is still trying to raise enough money to pay an attorney.

"We've been trying to get money from you for years. We're grateful for the quarter-mill you gave us when revenue sharing was cut, but that's $1,500," Fields said. "When you talk about buying one noddie that costs $500...Well, there it goes."

One proposal for reducing equipment costs LeStelle and Fields offered is a truck construction project currently being used by George County.

When a George County volunteer fire department needs a truck, the county purchases a truck chassis, the local school district's vocational-technical students build a tank for it, and the pump mechanisms are installed by a firefighter supply firm in Jackson.

The board asked that its attorney, FIREFIGHTERS—Page 10A

Diamondhead receives arson detector unit

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

An electronic arson detector unit was donated to the Diamondhead Fire Department this week by the Mississippi Insurance Council.

State Insurance Commissioner and Fire Marshal George Dale and MIC Chairman Cliff Tucker presented the arson detector Tuesday as part of a statewide program to aid fire departments in detecting arson in investigations of suspicious fires.

Dale said home insurance in Mississippi is higher than any state in the southeastern region because of the large amount of losses paid by insurance companies.

"Currently 33 cents of every dollar spent on fire insurance goes for payment of a questionable claim," Dale added.

The commission is hoping the distribution of the arson detection units will lead to the reduction of the cases of arson in the state, Tucker said.

"Arson is the fastest growing crime in the United States," he added.

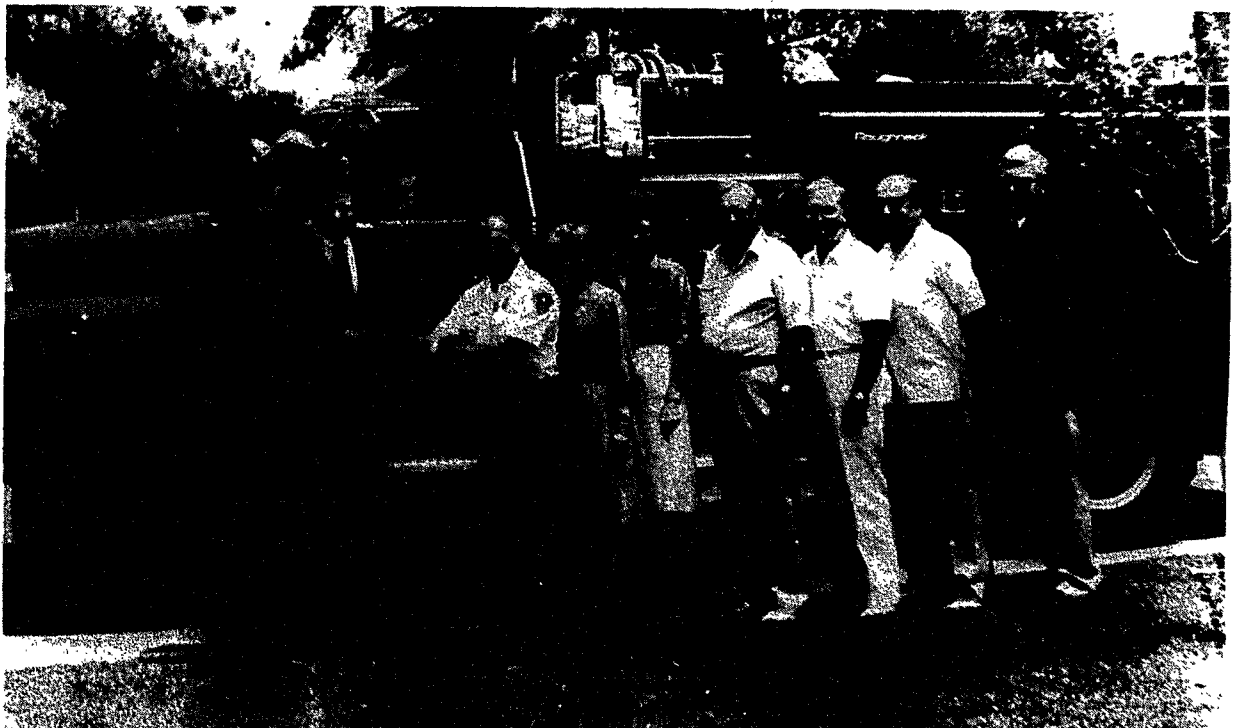

At this time Mississippi ranks 15th in the nation in the number of fires but is 31st in population.

According to Tucker arson costs Mississippi policyholders millions of dollars each year in excess premiums.

"It is the honest policyholder who pays the arson bill through his insurance premium," Tucker said.

The arson detector has the capability to electronically "smell" through the ashes of a burned house or building to determine if an accelerant, such as gasoline, was present in the fire.

Two vehicles totaled in head-on collision

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The investigation continues into an automobile accident Tuesday night on Highway 603 near Longfellow Drive.

When Deputy Sheriff Joe Pica arrived at the scene there were two cars which were "totally destroyed" but no drivers.

Pica reported both a 1981 Ford and 1978 Datsun were in the ditch on the northbound side of the highway.

The Ford had been southbound and the Datsun was northbound, Pica said.

"The vehicles collided head on," he added.

A witness to the accident told Pica that both drivers had left the scene.

From the National Crime Information Computer Pica learned the Ford was registered to Winston C. Haniel, of Route 4, Poplarville and the Datsun is registered to Edward Schambach of Route 1, Pass Christian.

While Pica was investigating the incident at the scene Thelma Haniel arrived. She said she had been informed that her car had been in an accident but she was not aware of who was driving the car.

According to the report filed at the Hancock County Sheriff's office, Jackie Haniel has been identified as the driver of the Ford and is believed to be in the Crosby Memorial Hospital in Picaune.

A spokesman for the hospital said J. W. Haniel was admitted Tuesday, reportedly injured in an accident on a all-terrain vehicle.

Pica reported he had not been able to contact Schambach, registered owner of the Datsun.

Mayor explains extra charge

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. reported Wednesday that an adjustment of an earlier error on computerized utility bills is included on those mailed last week.

According to Frankiewicz the error in computing the gas bills was caused by a decimal point being put in the wrong place.

This resulted in the minimum payment for gas charged as $1.35 instead of $13.50, he said.

"The difference of $12.15 appears on the top of customers' bills this month as a balance forward," Frankiewicz added.

This $12.15 adjustment affects approximately one-fourth of the city's utility customers.

Frankiewicz said several customers had been questioning the balance forward.

"They were under-billed last month and this bill is just catching it up," he said.

DOLLS FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT USE—Two sets of anatomically correct dolls have been donated to Hancock County's law enforcement agencies by local American Legions and Veterans of Foreign Wars organizations. Checking the dolls are, from left, J.P. Compretta, assistant district attorney; and Delbert Seay, Hancock County criminal investigator. The dolls are to be used to investigate and intervene in child sexual abuse cases in order for a child to express exactly what happened to them. The dolls have benign expressions which will not frighten the child. Each set of dolls includes a male adult, a female adult, a male child, and a female child. Seay said the dolls will be kept at the sheriff's office for use by local law enforcement and Welfare investigators in possible child sex abuse cases. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Supervisors delay creation of water protection district

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has delayed action on the formation of a water conservation and protection district. The board voted four to one to delay action Tuesday after a public hearing on the necessity of establishing the water district in conjunction with Harrison County. Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner voted against the delay, proposing instead that a second public hearing be held. The board felt the delay would be needed after listening to representatives from Gulf Regional Planning Commission, Pearl River Basin Development District and U.S.

Geological Survey. According to Andrew G. Lamonds, assistant district chief of the U.S. Geological Survey, a federal study is being conducted that presently indicates that a water protection and conservation district may need to include more than Hancock and Harrison Counties in order to be effective. L.J. Breaux, representing Pearl River Basin Development District, agreed, saying that the study will be completed in 1988. He read a letter to the board from District Executive Director Mike Davis, who recommended that six counties be included. In addition, the development

Supervisors approve proposal for human resources council

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has approved forming a human resources council for the county. Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner proposed forming the council Tuesday. Board approval was unanimous. The council, which will become active at the beginning of the next budget year, will take over the operation of the county's senior citizen and child development programs. Those programs are currently administered through South Mississippi Planning and Development District. According to Ladner, handling the two programs on an in-house basis minorities, will be selected on an at-large basis. Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge requested that the minority representatives be included because both the senior citizen and child development programs serve a large number of minorities.

Senior Citizens Director Eve McDonald and Chancery Clerk Michael Necaise will act as advisors to the council. Board members are expected to present their recommendations for council members at their May 5 meeting.

with the bookkeeping being done through the chancery clerk's office could save about $20,000 to $25,000 per year. "We can't get an exact figure on those savings because we have trouble getting a true picture of the budget from the agency presently running it," Ladner said. The board has twice requested a breakdown of the budget for the two programs, but has been unable to obtain the information. The county will have seven representatives on the council, Bay St. Louis will have one and Waveland will have one. Each supervisor will appoint one representative from each beat. PROMOTE CIRCUIT JUDGE J. RUBLE GRIFFIN to the SUPREME COURT

Mississippi Supreme Court Judges are elected. It seldom happens that the people initially have the opportunity to vote for a member of the highest court in the state. Vacancies generally occur by death or resignation, a governor's appointment follows. This year Chief Justice Neville Patterson is not seeking reelection, hence J. Ruble Griffin is seeking his seat.

A seat on the highest court should be earned:

Judge Griffin has been a member of the bar 38 years.

Judge Griffin has served as a city attorney in Eupora, county prosecutor in his native Webster County, city attorney in Bay St. Louis, attorney for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and for the Hancock County School Board.

Judge Griffin served for 10 years as assistant attorney general, among his various assignments was representation of the prosecution in criminal appeals.

Judge Griffin became circuit judge for Hancock, Harrison and Stone Counties in 1973, re-elected three times without opposition. He is past chairman of the state circuit judges conference.

Judge Griffin has been active as a good citizen: WW II veteran, paratrooper-Europe; VFW and American Legion member; past president of Bay St. Louis Rotary Club and Hancock County Chamber of Commerce; active member, First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis.

Judge Griffin and Ruth, his wife for 40 years, have two children, Pat, Comptroller of Hinds County, and Martha, Administrative Law Judge, State Workers Compensation Commission.

He is prepared, and humbly asks you to promote him to the Supreme Court.

This is just a reminder for early risers not to forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition at 7 a.m. this morning. Two special guests are to talk about the Unit System.

We hope to see you this a.m.

The most talked about subject in the area has been those critters called gnats.

I know I have mentioned this before, but it still is a fact.

Several longtime residents report this has been the worst season they can ever remember.

I have talked to several residents of Pearlinton who report it is almost impossible to go outside of their homes because of the gnats.

It is said that hot weather will cause them to leave, so many folks can't wait for the hot weather to get here.

I know there may be some 'jail birds' wondering how the March of Dimes did on the 'Jail and Bail' held last Wednesday and Thursday.

Evelyn McPhail, chairman of the event, called on Monday to report a total of $15,278 in donations and pledges were raised for the March of Dimes in Hancock County.

We realize some of our neighbors from Pass Christian contributed to the cause as 'jail birds' and also in helping bail their friends out.

It wasn't until payday on Wednesday that I was able to find the culprit who had me 'arrested' last week. His name was one of the prime suspects left in my investigation into the matter.

McPhail said that there were about 100 'arrestees' who were not collected for 'jail' because of a lack of time.

This may want to make some of you who got by without being 'arrested' just wonder if you had a 'warrant' issued in your name.

The event was for a very worthy cause.

The Hancock County Civil Defense is updating its files on persons with boats available in times of emergencies.

Volunteers whose names the Civil Defense already has, and who have not moved or changed their boats need not respond.

Our Civil Defense at times has need for boats and persons who know certain areas, according to Robert Boudin, director.

Appointment to Military Academy from enlisted ranks a noteworthy achievement

April 29, 1986

Bay St. Louis

Gentlemen:

In your Sunday, April 27 issue you announce that John Michael Boyer recently received his commission to West Point Air Force Academy.

As far as I know there is no such academy and the proper term is appointment not commission. The latter is given only after graduation from an accredited military school.

Apparently Mr. Boyer has won an appointment to one of the United States service academies. For your information they are:

—United States Military Academy, West Point, New York.

—United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland.

—United States Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

United States Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut.

If Mr. Boyer has been appointed to West Point, he deserves to be congratulated as only about 10 percent of the highly qualified applicants are selected.

Sincerely yours,

JACKSON— The 1986 session of the Legislature saw in the desperate effort of lawmakers to cut government spending a radical departure in the way new laws are enacted which may have serious consequences on the legislative process in the future.

House Bill 1369, the so-called "super-bill" budget reduction measure that the lawmakers passed in the hectic extension of the session was unprecedented legislation, not for what it did, but how it attempts to do it.

What should be of great concern to anyone who tries to follow the Legislature in order to see what the lawmakers have done to them (or, heaven forbid, for them), is the content of House Bill 1369 when it came through the legislative meatgrinder.

In one 74-page bill major law changes affecting at least 30 totally unrelated subjects, ranging all the way from eliminating reading aides in public schools beyond the third grade, to selling the state jet airplane were strung together.

The one measure did everything from provide a three-month tax amnesty for people who have cheated on their income tax in the past, to shifting $500,000 of the cost of the state minimum foundation education program from the state to local school districts.

A few other things it purports to do is set up a state printing plant in Jackson to do all major printing for state agencies; abolish the long-time State Educational Finance Commission, reconstitute the makeup of the State Welfare Board, provide for entrance fees to State parks and even revamp the size and terms of the State College Board.

(However, the latter—revamping the College Board—was made contingent upon a separate constitutional amendment that fell by the wayside.)

Never before in the history of the Mississippi Legislature, certainly not in the past four decades that I have been watching the state lawmaking process, has such a mass of unrelated governmental services and functions been thrown together in a wrap-around bill.

Legislative tradition and practice in this state has been to deal with specific subjects in separate measures so that the law changes can be considered and debated individually on their own merits.

How can law changes affecting public schools, public welfare, tax policy, public health, public safety, the state retirement system, economic development and whatever else be properly studied and legislated in one massive dose?

It came into being, of course, as a desperation measure by legislators who either opposed raising taxes, or conceded there was no hope of raising taxes, to find an alternative to taxes.

But it was a dangerous exercise of herding all governmental services into a shooting gallery and handing each lawmaker a rifle to shoot down his favorite targets.

The great irony is that when lawmakers began talking about "making the tough choices" of what services should be cut or eliminated, they did not even consider doing away with two of the biggest sacred cows that constitute a real drain on the state treasury: homestead exemption and the State Aid Road program.

Homestead exemption is merely taking money out of one pocket and putting it into another (with some spillage in between). It is the oldest form of revenue-sharing around, making it appear local governments are giving you something, while eventually you will have to pay for it out of the state treasury.

The State Aid Road program was started way back in 1950 to finance farm-to-market roads in the rural areas.

The state was supposed to have gotten out of the program back in 1982 and turn it over to the counties to operate and maintain. Now, 24 years later the state is still putting

A WAY TO TRIM THE COST OF GOVERNMENT

Looking for ways to trim the state budget?

Information from the U.S. Census Bureau suggests the answer. This is not the first time this answer has been advanced.

One answer to the question of trimming the state budget?

Look at the public payroll.

The State of Mississippi, reports the Census Bureau, continues to operate state and local governments with overflowing public payrolls.

The Bureau reports Mississippi ranks third among ten southern states in the number of state and local government employees per capita. And in the critical areas of higher education and transportation, both problem areas for the state, Mississippi's per capita employment is the highest among the southern states and significantly higher than the national average.

Mississippi, reports the Bureau, has a total of 510 state and local government employees per 10,000 population. The average for the ten southern states is 470 employees per 10,000 population and the national average is 455 employees. Only Louisiana and Georgia lead Mississippi among the southern states, with 520 and 511 employees per 10,000 population, respectively.

Mississippi would have to reduce its 181,000 state and local government employees by 13,685 to reach the southern states average and reduce employment by more than 19,000 to reach the national average. It's a goal worth considering.

Emergency physicians to discourage smoking

The American College of Emergency Physicians (ACEP) has called for an immediate end to government subsidies to the tobacco industry.

The association believes that ending these subsidies would place the tobacco farming industry into a competitive situation. This could cause tobacco prices to rise, possibly discouraging nonsmokers from starting the habit.

In addition, ACEP supports raising taxes on tobacco products and devoting the revenue to the care of patients with tobacco-use-related disease. ACEP also is encouraging the prohibition of tobacco smoking in public places, except in designated areas.

The college also supports a total ban on tobacco advertising.

Finally, ACEP endorses continued use of honest and accurate warnings, such as package inserts, on all tobacco products, whether for domestic use or foreign export.

"By providing package inserts in all tobacco products, tobacco users would be supplied with more in-depth information about the medical effects of tobacco use," said Richard L. Stennes, MD, president of ACEP.

"ACEP believes that use of any tobacco product can be dangerous to your health," Dr. Stennes added. "If the above concepts became law, they could help to discourage nonsmokers from starting, and encourage smokers to cut down or perhaps even quit the habit."

The American College of Emergency Physicians is the 13th largest medical specialty society in the United States, with more than 11,200 members in the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico.

Local veterans groups observing Loyalty Day

The first of May is Loyalty Day and as such it is a day filled with activities designed to involve the community in an overt display of loyalty to flag and country.

Therefore, every loyal citizen should eagerly participate in the festivities in an effort to make this Loyalty Day the best observance ever held.

Theodore S. Price Post and Auxiliary Unit No. 3253 in Bay St. Louis plans a Loyalty Day program at 6 p.m. Thursday at the post home on Third Street.

Loyalty Day has become a tradition with the Veterans of Foreign Wars. With the passage of Public Law 85-529 on July 18, 1958, the VFW won a long hard battle to have Loyalty Day approved by Congress. However, this day does not belong to the VFW alone, it belongs to all Americans.

Most Americans have heard the quote "Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country." This is a sound principle to live by in a country such as ours, where the government is elected by the people and where the public is expected to participate in the governing process.

In these times of global political turbulence, Americans should pause and ask themselves, "What have we done and what are we doing now to demonstrate to the world just how we feel about our country?" After all, ours is a country that has held high the beacon of liberty and asked nothing of the other nations except that they send to her, in the words of Emma Lazarus emblazoned on the Statue of Liberty, their "huddled masses yearning to breathe free."

Ours is a country that has taken the abstract ideal of "Freedom and Justice for All" and made it into a way of life.

We must pledge ourselves to maintain a free society in which loyalty is always encouraged and respected. For, without loyalty the United States, the world's best hope for a future blest with freedom, cannot long survive. And, if we fail, the flame of freedom will diminish and fade forever. So, join in and become a part of the Loyalty Day Celebrations, let the world know that Americans are behind their country and that America because of this is still a strong vibrant nation.

Legislative Wrap-Up

The 1986 legislative session will be remembered for several things: the abolition of blue laws, lawmakers' approval of gubernatorial succession, and continued support for kindergartens and teacher pay raises.

Other substantive changes were made during the session, including opening the door to statewide banking and a uniform school that insures that county supervisors must levy taxes to support county school districts.

But after the first, fast-moving weeks, difficult decisions about money problems dominated the discussions on the floor of the legislature and in capitol hallways. State officials said the state was facing a tax shortfall of more than $100 million, which would force cutbacks in vital services.

The Senate proposed a tax hike, but the House would not go along. The House meanwhile, devised a massive $100 million plus cost-saving package. After negotiations between both chambers, an $11 million cost-cut was approved.

The session saw Gov. Bill Allain resume his tough-talking style, and the gray-haired former prosecutor achieved a partial victory over the state Highway Department when the House failed to override his veto of the department's budget.

As of July 1, the department will not be funded. The chief executive says he may consider calling a special session to give them the dollars they need if he also gets assurances that the legislature will consider restructuring the way the department is run.

Both the constitutional amendment on gubernatorial succession, which will be on the November ballot, and the possible special session for highways could dramatically increase the power of the governor.

This is just a reminder for early risers not to forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition at 7 a.m. this morning. Two special guests are to talk about the Unit System.

We hope to see you this a.m.

The most talked about subject in the area has been those critters called gnats. I know I have mentioned this before, but it still is a fact.

Several longtime residents report this has been the worst season they can ever remember.

I have talked to several residents of Pearlinton who report it is almost impossible to go outside of their homes because of the gnats.

It is said that hot weather will cause them to leave, so many folks can't wait for the hot weather to get here.

I know there may be some 'jail birds' wondering how the March of Dimes did on the 'Jail and Bail' held last Wednesday and Thursday.

Evelyn McPhail, chairman of the event, called on Monday to report a total of $15,278 in donations and pledges were raised for the March of Dimes in Hancock County.

We realize some of our neighbors from Pass Christian contributed to the cause as 'jail birds' and also in helping bail their friends out.

It wasn't until payday on Wednesday that I was able to find the culprit who had me 'arrested' last week. His name was one of the prime suspects left in my investigation into the matter.

McPhail said that there were about 100 'arrestees' who were not collected for 'jail' because of a lack of time.

This may want to make some of you who got by without being 'arrested' just wonder if you had a 'warrant' issued in your name.

The event was for a very worthy cause.

Local veterans groups observing Loyalty Day

The first of May is Loyalty Day and as such it is a day filled with activities designed to involve the community in an overt display of loyalty to flag and country.

Therefore, every loyal citizen should eagerly participate in the festivities in an effort to make this Loyalty Day the best observance ever held.

Theodore S. Price Post and Auxiliary Unit No. 3253 in Bay St. Louis plans a Loyalty Day program at 6 p.m. Thursday at the post home on Third Street.

Loyalty Day has become a tradition with the Veterans of Foreign Wars. With the passage of Public Law 85-529 on July 18, 1958, the VFW won a long hard battle to have Loyalty Day approved by Congress. However, this day does not belong to the VFW alone, it belongs to all Americans.

Most Americans have heard the quote "Ask not what your country can do for you - ask what you can do for your country." This is a sound principle to live by in a country such as ours, where the government is elected by the people and where the public is expected to participate in the governing process.

In these times of global political turbulence, Americans should pause and ask themselves, "What have we done and what are we doing now to demonstrate to the world just how we feel about our country?" After all, ours is a country that has held high the beacon of liberty and asked nothing of the other nations except that they send to her, in the words of Emma Lazarus emblazoned on the Statue of Liberty, their "huddled masses yearning to breathe free."

Ours is a country that has taken the abstract ideal of "Freedom and Justice for All" and made it into a way of life.

We must pledge ourselves to maintain a free society in which loyalty is always encouraged and respected. For, without loyalty the United States, the world's best hope for a future blest with freedom, cannot long survive. And, if we fail, the flame of freedom will diminish and fade forever. So, join in and become a part of the Loyalty Day Celebrations, let the world know that Americans are behind their country and that America because of this is still a strong vibrant nation.

Hancock General names new nursing director

Janis M. Jones, RN, MSN, has been named director of nursing at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis.

A native of Houston, Texas, she received a master of science degree in nursing administration from Trinity College in Texas, and a bachelor of science degree in nursing from the University of New York.

Ms. Jones moves to Hancock General from Parkway Regional Hospital in Lithia Springs, Ga. where she served as an assistant director of nursing for the past three years.

Previous to that position, she was an administrative coordinator at Physicians and Surgeons Hospital in Atlanta, GA, and an assistant director of nursing at Baptist Medical Center in Fort Payne, AL.

"Ms. Jones brings a total of 16 years of nursing experience to Hancock General," said Phil Wolfe, hospital administrator, "and we are glad to have her here as we prepare to move into a new facility soon. She has worked in all phases of the nursing profession, including medical/surgical, emergency room and critical care."

Mississippi Reporting Service Legislative Wrap-Up

The 1986 legislative session will be remembered for several things: the abolition of blue laws, lawmakers' approval of gubernatorial succession, and continued support for kindergartens and teacher pay raises.

Other substantive changes were made during the session, including opening the door to statewide banking and a uniform school that insures that county supervisors must levy taxes to support county school districts.

But after the first, fast-moving weeks, difficult decisions about money problems dominated the discussions on the floor of the legislature and in capitol hallways. State officials said the state was facing a tax shortfall of more than $100 million, which would force cutbacks in vital services.

The Senate proposed a tax hike, but the House would not go along. The House meanwhile, devised a massive $100 million plus cost-saving package. After negotiations between both chambers, an $11 million cost-cut was approved.

The session saw Gov. Bill Allain resume his tough-talking style, and the gray-haired former prosecutor achieved a partial victory over the state Highway Department when the House failed to override his veto of the department's budget.

As of July 1, the department will not be funded. The chief executive says he may consider calling a special session to give them the dollars they need if he also gets assurances that the legislature will consider restructuring the way the department is run.

Both the constitutional amendment on gubernatorial succession, which will be on the November ballot, and the possible special session for highways could dramatically increase the power of the governor.

Review of 1986 Legislative Voting Records

Senate vote to override, 43-9; House vote to override, 98-24; Sen. Martin Smith, Yea; Sen. Taylor, Nay; Rep. Phillips, Nay.

This House vote failed to override the governor's veto of a $436 million appropriation for the Highway Department for 1987. A major part of the law requires county boards of supervisors to levy taxes to support county school districts when requested by school boards. Senate vote, 31-18; House vote, 84-36; Sen. Martin Smith, Yea; Sen. Taylor Yea; Rep. Phillips Yea, Failed.

ABORTIONS
This bill requires that a girl under 18 get the consent of her parents or a court order before she can have an abortion. Senate vote, 51-1; House vote, 79-38; Sen. Martin Smith, Yea; Sen. Taylor, Yea; Rep. Phillips, Yea.

STATEWIDE BANKING
This bill provides for new branches and bank mergers that will allow banks to do business statewide. It also will allow mergers with out-of-state banks in two years. Senate vote, 35-11; House vote, 103-14; Sen. Martin Smith, Nay; Sen. Taylor, Nay; Rep. Phillips, Nay.

PRISONS
This vote allocated $27 million toward construction of a 500-bed facility at Parchman, a 500-bed unit south of I-20 and expansion of the women's unit that is currently under construction in Rankin County. Senate vote, 37-12; House vote, 108-14; Sen. Martin Smith, Yea; Sen. Taylor, Yea; Rep. Phillips, Yea.

COST-SAVING PACKAGE
This was the massive bill that allocated $11 million from budgets at the end of the session to provide for major programs that were in need. Senate vote, 62-0; House vote, 88-33; Sen. Martin Smith, Yea; Sen. Taylor, Yea; Rep. Phillips, Nay.

System can reduce amount of water for plants by 50 percent

A plant watering system developed in Israel to cope with irrigation problems in barren stretches of desert is helping homeowners take care of their plants in the United States.

Called slow flow, or drip irrigation, the system can reduce the amount of water used by as much as 50 percent.

New do-it-yourself kits from several manufacturers make it possible for homeowners to adapt this technology. True Temper Slo-Flo kits, for example, come in three different configurations for specific applications—landscaping, patios and vegetable gardens.

The kits snap together and hook up to an outside water tap. Timers can be added.

Tools needed for assembly are a tape measure for determining lengths of tubing, and a pair of scissors or a knife for cutting tubing. No adhesives are required.

First, a drawing should be made showing lawns, gardens and plantings with rough distances and including an outline of your house with available faucets. Next, determine how best to serve each specific area. Landscaping that contains needled plantings and flowers, for example, should be provided a very fine, steady spray of water.

For gardens and planters, water should be dripped slowly at the base of plantings, allowing the ground to absorb every drop. To meet these needs, some kits contain perforated tubing and small "dripper" nozzles for planters.

Installation should be started at the faucet, where a filter screen and flow regulator is inserted into a hose connector. If required by local law, an antisiphon device may have to be added.

The supply hose either can be permanently buried or laid across the ground.

The landscape kit comes with 80 feet of half-inch poly tubing and with two elbows and "T" connectors to provide additional flexibility in designing a watering system. Each kit also contains 12 half-circle sprayers that will each cover a six-foot radius and 12 full-circle sprayers that each cover a 12-foot radius.

There are 20 "risers" in each kit, used to support each spray nozzle whether the water line has been buried or not. Each riser is pushed into the poly tubing at the point where a spray is desired, and threaded into a snug fit. They don't leak. A spray nozzle is then screwed into the top of the riser.

For vegetable gardens, straight "T" and elbow connectors are provided to lay out the watering system without kinking the 1/2-inch poly water supply tubing.

The "T" fittings are installed at the end of each row of plantings and an irrigatic tape, which only allows water to seep out, is stretched the length of each row.

Patio kits provide quarter-inch poly tubing with "T" fittings to channel water from the main supply to individual plantings or pots. Gang fittings can be used to increase the number of water lines used in a specific area, such as one that has four or five hanging planters.

The poly tubing can be stapled to walls and other structures, and spikes hold it firmly into the soil. "Drippers" pushed into the end of each tube dispense water at the rate of a half-gallon an hour.

ETV Brief

FARMER OF THE YEAR

"Farmweek" will feature Yazoo County farmer Sonny Baskin in a program to air at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 5, on Mississippi ETV. Baskin was recently chosen Mississippi Farmer of the Year by the Mississippi Network, which services about 75 radio stations in the state.

"Farmweek" host Tyson Gair will talk with Baskin about his skills for running a successful farming operation in these financially troubled times in American agriculture. One of Baskin's keys to success is his use of new production techniques that result in consistently high-yielding crops.

In another segment of the program, "Farmweek" will report on the danger of tornadoes in Mississippi. They will talk with officers at the National Weather Service about why Mississippi is so susceptible to tornadoes and what people can do to minimize personal risk and property loss.

A special rite of Spring at our house when I was growing up in New Orleans and on the Coast was the farewell feast of oysters at the end of April or perhaps several days into May, if the weather stayed somewhat cool. In those days before fast transportation and modern refrigeration, oysters were considered unsafe to eat during the "R"-less months of May, June, July and August.

As a matter of fact, our ancestors felt that they absolutely "must not eat oysters during those months which in pronouncing want the letter R" so William Vaughan advised in print in 1600, I've been told by some sage or other!

There's some basis, I must admit, for this old saw, for oysters just happen not to be at their best in the R-less months. But, with modern methods of refrigeration and transportation, and deep-freezer units, they're not unsafe!

At any rate, we devoured oysters to the heart's content and stomach's capacity in anticipation of the coming deprivation during the summer—raw, fried, scalloped, what have you.

So, this is the time to cook up those oyster dishes which involve chopping and saucing and seasoning and such - and you'll enjoy them.

As a change from oyster patties or oyster stew, why not serve that old-fashioned standby of early American days - scalloped oysters? But, for the sake of your culinary reputation, don't serve up that cream-saucy, doughy, heavier-than-heavy version to which so many cooks resort.

And, a version, I may add, which has given this oh-so-succulent dish a bad name! But, this simple truly old-fashioned version, rich with butter (or, substitute margarine, if you wish) is a favorite of mine. Here's:

OLD-FASHIONED SCALLOPED OYSTERS

1 pint oysters, drained of liquor
Stick of butter, cut in pieces
Fresh ground pepper as desired
1 cup coarse bread crumbs
Approximately 1/4 tsp. scraped or grated onion.

Generously butter a shallow casserole, and dust well with coarse bread crumbs. Then, place a layer of the crumbs, next a layer of oysters, butterpieces, a good grind of the pepper mill (or coarse-ground pepper) and a bit of onion, in the dish.

Place a second layer of crumbs, oysters, butter, onions until the casserole is filled, making a final layer of crumbs with an extra-generous topping of the butter.

Bake in a 400 degree oven for 15 or 20 minutes, or until the top browns lightly, salt if you wish, but fresh oysters often don't need salting. I find a shallow baking dish best for this, for, if your dish is too deep, and you make more layers, sometimes the middle layer doesn't cook well enough.

If you wish, you may top each layer with a bit of cream, but as the oyster juices seep out and mix with the butter and crumbs, it results in a tasty sauce. Some cooks use crackers instead of the bread crumbs, incidentally. And, often, if I've enough on hand, I increase the amount of oysters. (4 servings)

McCullough retires after 28 years as Bay superintendent

BY DENA BISNETTE

After 28 years as superintendent of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District, J.D. McCullough will step down June 30.

McCullough, a native of Louisville and a graduate of University of Mississippi, came to Hancock County 34 years ago as a teacher-principal for the county school district.

After three years of service in that district, McCullough moved to the Bay St. Louis district as principal of Bay Senior High School.

He was appointed superintendent in 1958.

J.D. MCCULLOUGH

During McCullough's administration, the district has expanded from three schools, the building now known as Bay Junior High, the old Waveland Elementary School and Valena C. Jones School, closed during desegregation in 1969, to four.

Three new schools, North Bay Elementary, the present Waveland Elementary School and Bay Senior High School, have been constructed and expanded since he took office.

In addition, Bay High Stadium was built in 1963 and baseball fields and tennis courts were added later. Additional have been made at all four schools and a kindergarten building is planned for Waveland Elementary.

The district's budget has grown from $258,404 in 1959 to $4,747,377 for the current school year.

The total number of people employed as administrators, faculty and staff has grown from 51 to 214.

McCullough said that he has tried to pay particular attention to finances during his tenure as superintendent.

"I have never asked for anything that it wasn't proven in the final analysis that we needed. Finances have always been a big concern with me and I have always believed in getting a dollar's worth out of a dollar," he said.

He added that the district was operating in the red when he arrived but has not had that problem recently. In addition, the bond of indebtedness for the district has been reduced enough to make Bay St. Louis financially ready for more construction and renovation.

Dealing with finances, however, has not been McCullough's favorite job.

"The one thing I like most of all about my job is watching students go from first grade through high school, through the educational process through college, then seeing them developing their professions here," he explained.

"The daily work I enjoy most is counseling students and parents. When I'm doing it I'm hoping I might say a word or two in their behalf that will get them to think about the importance of staying in school and finishing their education."

"I am never too busy to help a student. It's what I enjoy most and will always remember."

McCullough commended the administrators, staff and school board members who have worked with him over the years and said he feels he is leaving the district in capable hands.

After he retires, he plans to remain in Bay St. Louis and become more active in civic organizations such as Rotary Club and American Legion.

In addition, he plans to travel, visit relatives, work on his house and fish.

"The seeds have gone too deep to move now. I have had two opportunities to leave during my career, but I enjoy Bay St. Louis," he explained.

"The people here don't bother with you; they just let you live your own life. We have good churches here and good community fellowship," McCullough said.

WASTEWATER GRANT—Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Board Chairman John Longo Jr. signs an application for a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency grant for Segment III of a five-part project that will eventually link the Bay St. Louis and Waveland sewerage systems. The grant is expected to provide $5,338,745, or 75 percent of the total cost, for improvements at Waveland's existing wastewater treatment plant. Food Stamps can be stretched by planting vegetable gardens

Food stamp recipients can stretch their food stamp benefits and improve their families' diets by planting vegetable gardens this spring.

According to Edward W. Davidson, southeast regional director of the food stamp program, food stamps can be used to purchase seeds and plants to produce food in a home garden.

"Of course," he said, "not everyone has garden space, but it is surprising how many vegetables can be grown in a small plot in the back yard or even in containers on an apartment patio."

Davidson explained that there is no expiration date on food stamps. Food stamp families who reduce their food purchases during the summer months by growing their own vegetables could save some of their food stamps to help with their winter food budgets.

"A U.S. Department of Agriculture survey has found that low-income families often purchase less vegetables and fruit than are needed for a nutritious diet," Davidson said. "Gardening cannot only save money but can also improve families' diets by increasing the availability of fresh foods."

Food stamps can be spent at grocery stores which are authorized by the Department of Agriculture to accept them.

Woods controversy continues, planning commission reviews lot-size requirements

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

In a special meeting Tuesday, the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission again heard protests from Sunset Drive area residents on the proposed Woods subdivision. Commission Chairman Joe Marochino called for the comment from the residents following the approval of the minutes from the April 14 meeting which included the approval of an amended plat of Phase I of The Woods.

Resident Wilson Wehre said he felt the current action would prevent the commission's future attempts to adjudicate matter on The Wood's subdivision. Wehre said he was concerned about problems that could arise in times of crisis with only one evacuation route.

"Beyer Drive is currently substandard and not adequate for the traffic now and will certainly not be adequate for additional traffic created by the subdivision," he added.

He also said the city needed to take a very serious look at the depletion of the water system services that would be created by the subdivision adding on.

"I intend to follow this situation all the way until the residents are satisfied with the results," he stated.

Ward One Councilman Lisa Coward told the group she was currently working to get Pine Street opened into the subdivision which would provide another entrance for the area.

Coward added city officials, Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner and developer Ronnie Artigues have tentatively agreed to finance the opening of Pine Street, but the matter must still be presented to the Bay St. Louis Municipal School District.

She also said the city was participating in the project to ease the flow of traffic from the Bay St. Louis School to the Tiger stadium area, particularly during football season.

Resident H. L. Robinson stated the possible opening of Pine Street was great news.

"This eliminates one of our primary concerns about the subdivision," he added.

Gerald Williams, also an area resident, said the group still believes that Esplanade Street should also be opened into the proposed subdivision.

Marochino concluded the discussion with a motion to hold a public hearing before the subdivision is approved.

Also at the meeting the board discussed reducing the 15,000 square foot lot size requirement in single-family residential areas.

City Clerk Edward Favre told the board with recent stricter enforcement of building codes many problems have arisen with the large lot-size requirement.

Favre asked the board to investigate the intent of the ordinance which requires all R1 lots to be a minimum of 15,000 square feet throughout the city.

He said this prevents some people who have lots of record that are less than the required size from building a house on their lots without getting a variance from the Board of Adjustments.

The number of these cases is increasing, he said, and some type of change or adjustment may be needed.

The board took no action on this matter.

State health officer named to fourth term

The Mississippi State Board of Health has re-elected Alton B. Cobb, MD, to his fourth consecutive term as state health officer. The term of appointment is six years.

Dr. Cobb has been serving in the position since July 1, 1973. He was re-elected to a full term in 1979, with the third term beginning in 1980 when the legislatively-reorganized State Board of Health began staggered terms. His current appointment extends to July 10, 1986.

The board, meeting in regular session at the Underwood Building in Jackson, heard personnel and financial reports; adopted a rule for individual aerobic wastewater treatment plants; approved amendments to the Regulations for Control of Radiation; renewed the license for Mississippi Dental Services; appointed June Norman to the Hearing Aid Advisory Council; and approved re-bidding for infant formula for participants in the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) and for courier delivery service.

Board Chairman Dr. Wildred Q. Cole of Jackson said Dr. Cobb's leadership for public health in Mississippi has been consistently innovative and at the forefront in state government.

"As executive officer of the State Department of Health, Dr. Cobb has initiated organizational changes to allow better use of personnel time and abilities, closer supervision of personnel, better lines of communication, and clearer delegation of authority," Dr. Cole said.

"He's helped our state build one of this country's strongest statewide public health organizations, and that has contributed significantly to our overall improved health status."

State and national organizations have noted Dr. Cobb's achievements and honored him with such prestigious awards as the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials' McCormack Award, the Mississippi Public Health Association's Underwood Award, the Mississippi Chapter, American Society for Public Administration, Public Administrator of the Year Award, and Tulane University School of Public Health's Alumnus of the Year Award.

Dr. Cobb has been in public health for nearly three decades, having first joined the State Department of Health as Sunflower County Health Officer in 1957; he later served as director of the agency's chronic illness services from 1962 to 1968. Before becoming State Health Officer, he was director of the Medicaid Commission and of the Comprehensive Health Planning Executive Department.

The 57-year-old Madison County native is a University of Mississippi alumnus who earned his M.D. degree at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine and interned at Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

Dr. Cobb holds a master's degree in public health from Tulane University. He is a diplomate, American Board of Preventive Medicine in Public Health and a past president of the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials.

"Under Dr. Cobb's leadership," Dr. Cole added, "Mississippi public health laws have been rewritten in accord with modern principles of health care administration and in a manner which provides appropriate authority to the agency to protect the public's health."

Dr. Cole was first appointed to the Board of Health in 1972, and Vice Chairman Dr. John Faust of Hattiesburg began his term of service in 1982.

Other Board members and their term expiration dates are Dr. Benton M. Hilburn of Tupelo, Clint Johnson of Leland, Dr. Joseph R. Mitchell of Gulfport, and Dr. Reita Keyes of Jackson, 1986; Dr. Frances Coleman of Ackerman and Katherine McKenzie of Durant, 1988; and Mary Jo Grant of Colquhoun, Okla. Clark of Meridian, Dr. Sidney O. Graves of Natchez, and Sister Josephine Therese Uhl of Jackson, 1990. Dr. Cole's term expires in July 1986 and Dr. Faust's in 1988.

Animal clinic slates annual open house

National Petweek is May 4-10 this year and to celebrate the unique relationship between people and their pets, Gingles Animal Clinic is holding an open house.

The open house will be held on Saturday, May 10, beginning at 2 p.m. at the clinic which is located on 28th St. at Klondyke Road in Long Beach.

Included in the activities for the day are a petting zoo of farm animals, pony rides, films about pet care suitable for children and refreshments. Admission is free.

Carol Hebert of the Harrison County Humane Society will be in attendance with some furry friends from the society.

Also, Jan Ruehling, creator of the Animals clothing and jewelry collection, will have a booth of her creations at the open house.

Public radio anniversary set

Public radio's daily newsmagazine 'All Things Considered' celebrates its 15th birthday May 3.

The award-winning program of news, analysis, commentary, interviews, arts features, human interest stories, wit and humor is broadcast Mondays through Fridays from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Public Radio in Mississippi (PRM), a division of Mississippi ETV. Co-hosts of the program are Susan Stamborg and Noah Adams.

Actor/Comedian Gene Wilder is kicking off a national chain letter to celebrate 'All Things Considered's' birthday. Wilder is an avid fan of the show and a regular listener. Persons interested in participating in the chain letter campaign may contact PRM for 10 copies of the letter to send to friends.

Said executive producer Ted Clark: "We are proud of 'ATC's' in-depth coverage and analysis of news, issues and trends. And we are equally proud that we have so many loyal listeners like Gene Wilder who care about the program. Their endorsement is the best advertising there is."

Since its national debut on May 3, 1971, 'All Things Considered' has earned a George Foster Peabody Award, two Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University awards and a George Polk Award.

THE BEE LINE: In the Middle Ages, people thought your intelligence was in your heart. Almost every country in the world utilizes some native product to make an alcoholic beverage. The skin of the hippo is about an inch and a half thick. Five ants are called that because their sting burns like fire. The cat is one of the longest-lived of the smaller domestic animals. The reported maximum age is about 30; the average lifespan is around 14. The garden snail will go about 150 feet an hour.

Pecans make versatile addition to many Mississippi recipes

Pecans have always been a Mississippi favorite. They are delicious, nutritious and grow exceptionally well in the state. But perhaps the most appealing characteristic of the pecan is that they are versatile enough to be used year round in practically any dish.

Recent surveys conducted among consumers nationwide showed that the majority preferred pecans over other nuts. One reason is because pecans can be used anytime, not only during holidays.

Analysis of the pecan proves it has a higher nutritive value per edible pound than wheat flour. They are a good source of protein and important vitamins and minerals, including iron, calcium and the B vitamins. Pecans are also rich in potassium and phosphorus, and they provide fiber that is important to daily diets.

Pecans may be enjoyed by the young and old alike. They make an excellent high energy addition to a camper's or backpacker's list of foods to be taken on the trail. Thus, as a snack food, pecans rank high, especially for children.

Update your summer recipes to include the pecan. In summer salads they provide taste, texture and eye appeal. They also can be used to season hamburger dishes or meat loaf.

For a patio party, use whole or chipped pecans and honey as a topping on ice cream. When cooking corn or other vegetables on the grill, add pecans for flavor. Wrapped in aluminum foil, the natural juices

HOW COLDS SPREAD

An on-going study of the common cold at the University of Wisconsin may cause rethinking about how colds are spread.

Previously, it was thought that noseblowing, sneezing, coughing and talking were less likely to spread cold viruses than person-to-person contact, such as shaking hands and handling infected products.

However, recent studies by Dr. Elliot Dick and his associates indicates colds are most likely to be spread only through the air.

Healthy volunteers who handled objects, such as pencils and playing cards, that had just been handled by a group of people with colds, did not get sick.

However, the healthy volunteers were not in the same room as those with colds.

Dr. Dick says as a practical matter, an air-handling system alone may be able to prevent transmission of the common cold.

This is just an example of the information being broadcast on "To Your Health" in May as a community service of Biloxi Regional Medical Center and WTAM Radio, 1240 AM.

"To Your Health" is aired twice daily on WTAM, once at 9:10 a.m. and again at 5:10 p.m.

"To Your Health" offers tips on healthy living to residents on the Gulf Coast.

"This twice daily program on health issues offers 10 different one-minute segments monthly, each focusing on a different item of health information," said Cheryl Cooper, director of marketing/communications, Biloxi Regional Medical Center.

Other topics for May's "To Your Health" include: Nutrition and Cancer, Day-Care Myths, Postpolio Syndrome, Tossing and Turning, Reproductive Mortality, Hospital Week, Hazards to Unborn, Raw Shellfish and VDT Update.

Walter James Phillips, look into the legal methods that may be used to generate additional funds.

A local and private bill for an additional one mill tax was also proposed, but Phillips said he had looked into the matter during the regular legislative session and found such a tax bill would have to be introduced as general legislation covering the entire state.

Phillips will report his findings to the board May 14.

In other business Tuesday, the board: —Opened bids for culverts and blacktop for projects in Beats one and three;

—Authorized Phillips to find out if the county has authority to regulate bonfires on the beach under anti-littering statutes;

—Approved a proposal to advertise for materials to repair the Dunbar Avenue Pier in Beat Three; and —Accepted a petition for an ad valorem tax exemption for G-Tech, a firm that is currently operating in Waveland and plans to move to a location on US-90.

The board meets again May 5.

dictates the presence and location of an accelerant.

The arson sniffer can detect gas concentrations of less than 50 parts per million. In addition to gasoline, the electronic unit can easily detect kerosene and more than 20 different gases and combustible substances.

At this time 41 arson detector units with an approximate value of $500 each have been donated to fire departments throughout the state by the council.

Ten units were also donated to the State Fire Marshal's Office.

The council, a non-profit education and information organization representing agents and companies from the property and casualty industry in the state, plans to continue to make these arson detection units available to selected fire departments across the state.

Chief Dennis Westbrook and members of the Board of Commissioners including Bob Barnes, Sylvia Pross, Syble Paul, Herbert Gaines, Lincoln Warren and Glen Smith accepted the unit for the fire department.

Take-One-Vido wins U-10 Championship

Special to The Sea Coast Echo
Coach Bernard Tusa's soccer team, 'Fireballs,' won two games last Saturday in Ocean Springs to become the District Champs.

In the semi-final game Saturday morning, the Fireballs defeated Gulfport No. 1.

The game ended in regulation play tied at 1-1. Two overtime periods were scoreless.

The game then went into a shoot-out with the Fireballs scoring one goal and Gulfport none.

The championship game played that afternoon was won by the Fireballs 2-1 over Gulfport No. 2.

This game also had an exciting finish. With Gulfport scoring their only goal in the opening minutes, Take-One-Video trailed most of the game.

With less than six minutes left in the game the Fireballs lived up to their name, scoring two goals to win the championship.

Coach Tusa cited his whole team for great playing during the tournament.

"I think the team has come together the last two weekends to play great soccer, and we are looking forward to Jackson," he said.

He also expressed thanks to players and parents and sponsor, Les Fillingame, for great support during the year.

Brian Laneaux slams a hit to contribute to a two-for-three effort at the plate

Tigers advance in district play

SPECIAL TO THE SEA COAST ECHO
Bay St. Louis defeated the Purvis Tornadoes in the first game of the District 8-3A baseball tournament on Monday afternoon in Purvis.

Game two of the series was to be played on Wednesday at Tiger Baseball Diamond in Bay St. Louis at 6 p.m.

In the game Monday afternoon, Tiger catcher, Stace McRaney led Bay High at the plate getting three base hits in three times at bat and driving in the go-ahead run in the fourth inning.

Powerful Tiger third baseman Brian Laneaux went two for three and scored two runs.

Jesse Logan was the winning pitcher and his stats for the game were three strike outs, three walks while giving up two runs on four hits. Logan also was one for three at the plate and had one RBI.

As in the conference-deciding game between Bay High and Vancleave, the Tigers again showed strength defensively.

In the fourth inning, Tornado pitcher, Steven Barrett got on base with a single, Brad Anderson grounded out to Bay High third baseman, Brian Laneaux. Jimmy Miller drew a base on balls, and Matt Neimeyer popped up to Tiger shortstop, Trace McRaney.

McRaney caught the ball, fell to the ground, threw to Laneaux, catching Barrett off third base for a double play, ending the Purvis scoring threat.

The losing pitcher, Barrett, pitched to 25 Bay High batters, gave up three runs and seven hits. He struck out 11 Tigers, and walked one.

In the hitting department, Barrett went two for three. Centerfielder Brad Anderson and third baseman Jimmy Miller each had an RBI for the Purvis team.

If Bay High defeats Purvis on Wednesday night, the Tigers will advance to the South State Tournament. In the event of a Tiger loss, a third game will be necessary on Friday night at a neutral field.

BWYC sinks Gulfport

With tongue in cheek, Gulfport YC issued a sailing challenge to the BWYC flag officers and skippers to sail against their flag officers and skippers in Flying Scots.

Commodore Kennedy of BWYC fearlessly took the challenge and the two clubs met in battle on Saturday, April 26 at the GYC.

The first race was for the flag officers.

Rear Commodore Pete Morrill (BWYC) won the first race he sailed in 10 years using crew Woody Stieffel and Missy Breath.

Vice-Commodore Walter Chamberlain (BWYC) was second with crew Rod Stieffel and Wayne Murphy.

Gulfport's Commodore Gordy Long was third.

In fourth place was BWYC Commodore Basil Kennedy with crew Weezie Kennedy and Ellen Eagen. Gulfport took fifth and sixth place.

The second race was won by Page Murphy (BWYC) with Rod Stieffel and Weezie Kennedy. Janet Gordon (BWYC) with Woody Stieffel and Wayne Murphy was second.

William Weatherly of Gulfport was third. Fourth place went to Bishop Stieffel (BWYC) with Missy Breath and Peter Breeden.

In the third race, Gulfport's Louis Bell won first place. In second place was Rod Stieffel with the help of crew Missy Breath and Janet Gordon. Ellen Eagen (BWYC) was third with Jud Crane and Bishop Stieffel. Woody Stieffel was fourth with Scot Anderson and Wayne Murphy.

Wynton Marsalis to visit 'Mister Rogers' Neighborhood

Virtuoso trumpeter, Wynton Marsalis of New Orleans, who has won Grammys for both jazz and classical recordings, is the featured guest on "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" Wednesday, May 7. He talks about music with Host Fred Rogers and plays two pieces with the Neighborhood's regular musicians.

The Marsalis visit, stressing both the freedom and the discipline involved in making music, is one highlight of a week of all-new "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" programs about celebrations. The series airs on the stations of the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS).

The segment begins as Mister Rogers meets Marsalis at "Joe Negri's Music Shop", where Marsalis says he is waiting to rehearse for a concert. The young (age 24) musician talks about having grown up watching "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood," about being given his first trumpet at age 6, and about not wanting to practice. Now, he says, "It's a matter of practicing every day".

Mister Rogers asks if, as a child, Marsalis ever played his trumpet when he was feeling especially sad or happy; Marsalis responds with brief solo demonstrations of both bluesy, sad music and bouncy, happy playing.

Then the Neighborhood's regular musicians—guitarist Joe Negri and Johnny Costa's Trio—arrive and, with Marsalis, play a double rendition of an old Neighborhood favorite, "It's You I Like," first as a gentle ballad and then as an up-tempo jazz piece.

After that, the five musicians—obviously enjoying playing together—break into some improvised blues that highlight the fine trumpet-playing of Marsalis.

When the music ends, Mister Rogers says, "That's a real way to talk with each other, isn't it? Nobody wrote that... you made it up as you were going along."

In an interview after the program taping, Marsalis said, "Fred Rogers is trying to expose kids to as many different kinds and styles of music as he can, and that's good."

Asked if there's any one message he hopes to get across to young viewers, he replied, "There sure is. It's never too early to work on self-discipline; it's the foundation of all the developing you'll do for the rest of your life."

Did Marsalis enjoy his visit to the Neighborhood? "I sure did," he smiles. "Fred's a terrific guy and those fellows I played with are real professionals... I liked those cats."

The other members of Pianist Costa's trio are Carl McVicker on bass guitar and Bob Rawsthorne on drums.

The week of new 'Mister Rogers' Neighborhood' programs is made possible by Public Television Stations and The Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

JAZZY NEIGHBORHOOD—Trumpeter Wynton Marsalis, who says he grew up watching "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood," visits Mister Rogers in an all-new week of programs about celebrations scheduled to air May 5-9 on the stations of the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS). On Wednesday, May 7, Marsalis, who at the age of 24 has already won six Grammy Awards, and host Fred Rogers talk about making music, and Marsalis plays two numbers with the Johnny Costa Trio and guitarist Joe Negri. The show airs at 4 p.m. on ETV.

ALCOHOL RELATED

A widower, a teenage girl, a prisoner, a stepfather and the others trapped in the aftermath of alcohol-related traffic accidents tell their stories in "Drinking and Driving:
The Toll, the Tears."

This documentary will air at 9 p.m. Wednesday, May 7, on Mississippi ETV.

Washington television reporter
Kelly Burke produced the documentary as part of his sentence after he was involved in an alcohol-related accident in which one man was killed. Burke conceived the idea of trying to communicate this awful reality through television so that others might learn from his experience and avoid a similar tragedy.

His method was not to rely on an array of statistics, but simply to let the people tell their stories. And they do with remarkable candor and poignance. From a living room, a prison, a church, a cemetery and a hospital physical therapy room, the drivers and the victims' families talk about how it feels to have had their lives changed by drinking and driving.

"But Lord... I Still Hurt"

A presentation of Mary Ann Jones' "HIS" Ministry, is

A challenge and encouragement to those within the Body of Christ who are hurting. This is a vehicle of Truth done through song and the spoken word, encouraging God's children in the fact that God loves us too much to shield us from our "eternal weights of Glory". It encourages us to be honest with Him in our desire to be rid of the pain, yet submissive to whatever
His will may be, for our PERFECTing and CORRECTing.
This challenge discourages a passive attitude of hopelessness and encourages an active attitude of yieldedness. It relates to everyone, each to our own level of hurt, regardless of the cause.

I DON'T BELIEVE IT

I don't believe it is the past rooted in the shadows of doubt. Today, in this fast world, study and application of certain discovered fundamental principles, which bring about proven clinical evidence of results, dispels doubt and saviors in understanding and knowledge. The cry of the past that echoed, "people couldn't fly," or "voices couldn't be transmitted over phones," or "radio or pictures over TV"—they just didn't believe it! Today there are many people who have experienced the wonderful results of Chiropractic care. They do not need the belief or doubts of the past, because they have knowledge of proven results through personal experience! Ask a Chiropractic patient if Chiropractic helped them! We will be surprised if we do not help you when we accept your case.

Another 14 drug arrests

'Operation nets seven

By DENA BISNETTE

A cooperative effort between the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and St. Bernard Parish, La., Sheriff's Department has resulted in seven drug-related arrests.

Over the next several weeks, the undercover operation is expected to result in 14 more arrests, most of which involve local residents, according to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said the arrests began Friday at about 5 p.m. and called the investigation "Operation Sundown."

"This operation was a spin-off of 'Operation Dawnbuster' in May 1985 and began when we picked up a St. Bernard Parish undercover officer on a faked arrest warrant," he explained.

"The only major difference on this one was that we didn't use a confidential informer as we did in two similar operations. We had the undercover man come in dry, without any local contacts, to see what kind of particular drug problem we have."

Peterson termed those arrested "a better class of violators."

Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Alvin Laddner, who was in charge of the operation with St. Bernard Narcotics Agent Charles Loescher, said more hard drug violations were found. Operation Dawnbuster and the similar 1984 "Operation Wake-up" netted mostly marijuana violations.

Peterson said the sheriff's department learned that cocaine is more prevalent in Hancock County than it was several years ago. "We feel this way to control our streets," he said. Cocaine cost per gram in the area.

Major Forrester, special investigator, St. Bernard Parish, said the Sheriff's Department information during that may help drug problems.

He said St. Bernard Parish offered to help the operation, and feel that can be important because the man believed to be a drug smuggler, Grapevine Road, La. Luke Raia, age 23, 1985, a few days later, his St. Bernard Parish with a large amount of drugs.

"Drug traffic is a problem, and now we have more undercover men shared from the county to count crossing state lines. Also assisting were the Bayou La Batre Police. All those arrested on bond except the resident being held in Louisiana. Those arrested

School board kindergarten

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Rescinding an earlier motion, the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees voted Thursday to accept a bid to construct an eight-classroom kindergarten building at Waveland Elementary.

On a 3-2 vote, the board awarded a contract to Tilley Contractors and Engineers of Gulfport, who offered to complete the project for a total of $400,000.

Architect Jules Lagarde told the board he had met with a committee of board members regarding altering an original design but had determined that this would "not award the contract.

Immediately following the presentation, Board Member Glover read a motion recommending the April 23 motion to award the contract.

Board Member Lagarde said the contract bid would be for walls instead of floors. Carter told the board he did not think frame construction was advisable. "We owe it to the children to be
